Mediator and Facilitator, Mountain West Investment Company

Kasha is a trained mediator and facilitator who currently works at Mountain West Investment Company trying to spread Outward Mindset throughout the community. There she works within the community to enhance the power of seeing people as people. Prior to working in Oregon, Kasha worked with young adults first as trail walker at The Anasazi Foundation helping struggling teens in a wilderness therapy program and then at Thinking Beyond Borders, a gap year program that helped young people study different development issues throughout South America. She eventually worked at The Arbinger Institute for a few years supporting the team and clients in their goal to turn the world outward. Kasha has always been driven by the desire to help others find peace in their relationships and lives. When she is not working, you can find her living out global adventures, hosting a gathering of friends, belting out show tunes, or enjoying the beautiful outdoors.
